

Welcome to the AI4PEP bi-weekly News Brief. In this issue, we delve into the latest developments from the AI4PEP cohort, featuring updates from Ethiopia, Cameroon, Senegal, and Ghana.

In this week's AI4PEP meeting highlights, Team Ethiopia has been busy making significant progress, from visiting a national polio lab to securing office space for their project. They've also extended invitations for their project launch and actively networked at conferences, despite some LinkedIn account issues.

Team Cameroon has deployed committee representatives, and are making headway in drafting a regional paper. Preliminary research, integrating students into research projects, and successful paper pitches are also noteworthy achievements.

Team Senegal has been proactive in obtaining ethical clearance, and organizing an impressive launch event with strong social media engagement. High-level advocacy meetings, multi-party consultations, and expanding their network are commendable accomplishments.

Team Ghana has set up their social media presence while awaiting the finalization of their website. They've also attended a conference on One Health in Sub-Saharan Africa, with a malaria modeling paper in progress.

Additionally, Prof. Kong encouraged partners to explore funding opportunities, attend conferences, and consider applying for UN consultancies to expand the AI4PEP network.

Stay tuned for more updates and opportunities from our Sub-Saharan Africa partners!
